Hjalmer Wenstob's transformation pole commemorates his great-great-great grandfather, Masso, who, as a large albino man, had been placed in a sea cave at the age of 18. For three days he survived and he discovered his spiritual guide, the King Fisher. At the end of this ordeal he was welcomed into the Tla-O-Qui-Aht First Nation and made a chieftain. Hjalmer, who studies fine arts at U. Victoria, has been awarded a Bill Reed Scholarship by the Vancouver International Airport, where the commissioned pole will be displayed for one year.

Bamfield's fledgling fishery. Nova Harvest, Ltd.'s J.P. Hastery (Pres.) and Joel German (VP) have established a geoduck hatchery in the old abalone facility at the marine station. They are producing geoduck seed for the eastside of Vancouver Island with plans to produce seed for local farming. Wild harvested areas have poor recruitment and farming accelerates restocking, resulting in a uniform crop...one demanding top dollar (present range $17 - $25/per pd live, minimum size 1.5 pds). It takes 7 years from hatchery to produce a crop. Future growth could employ an individual in the hatchery and, with Huu-ay-aht involvement, several "farmers." Joel and J.P. welcome visitors. We wish Nova Harvest every success. L. Druehl

Happy 40th Anniversary! The Bamfield Marine Sciences Centre was recently informed that the Major Resource Support program of NSERC was no longer accepting applications. BMSC receives almost one-half million dollars every year from this program to keep BMSC in a state of readiness for the army of researchers that use the facility. This is about one-third of our research budget and is largely spent on salaries. Filling this hole is going to be a challenge. Thankfully, the funding will remain in place for the next two years. That gives us time to make the necessary hard decisions and to find the creative solutions to keep BMSC operating. We will be mapping strategy at our annual board meeting at the end of May. This year is the 40th anniversary of the opening of BMSC. We are hosting all-time record numbers of students and researchers. The 28,000 overnights in 2012 provides huge economic benefits to this community. They support Bamfield businesses and justify 38 staff salaries. Our MP, James Lunney, is aware of the consequences to BMSC and the Bamfield community. Media interest has been high, so this has been noticed by the wider community and our politicians. Whether we get any relief remains to be seen. Brad Anholt, Director

Bamfield's Music Maestro, Daryl Milne, left Bamfield early in April after almost exactly a decade here. Daryl worked in the General Store and was caretaker at Aguilar House when Bill Joyce owned it and after it changed hands. He contributed greatly to the arts scene, instigating the Bistro Open Mike nights and bringing both theatre and music to the Marine Station. He conducted a lively choir and was brains and brawn behind the annual Summer Solstice celebration. And of course he will always be the bass player of The Broken Group. Daryl goes on to work at The Beach House in Victoria. His energy and humour will be much missed. Heather Washburn

The Times They is Changing. A quote from Lars Mogensen at an Earlier Community Affairs meeting. "The West Park hasn't been mowed in 10 years when John and Cheryl Mass did it voluntary with their push mower. Now some one would probably do it for $35 on a sit-mower." Marc Phillips

Population Boom in Bamfield After conducting a quick 'census' on our local deer population, it seems that Bamfield either has 2 groups of 6 to 9 deer (one on either side of the harbour) or the deer swim across in random fashion to their favourite feeding spots. Tips to Gardeners: plant local shrubs & flowers that can handle occasional browsing, use taste deterrents (Bobbex or naturally awful tasting plants – think onion family or foxgloves), use smell deterrents (PlantSkyyd or naturally stinky plants – think daisies & such), fence off prize plants if hiding them behind other plants doesn't work or fence off your entire yard; but who wants to live in a compound? Loud noises, rocks & sling shots don't seem to be working anymore. I think they are here to stay & that means a change in our gardening styles. PS – don't approach deer, they can cause you or your pet serious harm with their hooves! They are becoming possessive of their favourite 'salad bars'! Michelle van Boven

Deer Buzz Off. Deer repellent from Christex Nursery (Nanaimo). "This works if you apply it every two weeks. Won't wash off in the rain." Mix 1 egg yoke and 1 litre water, add 1 tablespoon baking powder and mix. Spray on plants every two weeks. No short cuts, it is egg yolk only! Refrigerate in sealed container. Jane Morrison

41 Bamfielders bring Democracy to Bamfield. On May 28th, elections of the Community Affairs Board and the Advisory Planning Committee had enough people running that nobody got in by acclamation: full elections were held. Further, the "quorum" was increased, reflecting village demographics. Angry and astonished discussion followed New Director, Director Brad Anholt's announcement of a 1/7 revenue loss to the marine station budget due to federal budget cuts to Canadian Sciences (NSERC). The loss jeopardizes the 38 Bamfielders employed at the station and deprives the village of commerce from 28,000 over-night users. Write, talk, blog, spread the word of this unacceptable shortsighted loss to science and to Bamfield. Heather Washburn

The New Bamfielder Report Card. For the first year 80-140 hard copies of TNB were distributed monthly. Online hits reached 972 for the month of May...seems there is considerable interest in Bamfield's goings-on. Donations for the year reached $1048.17 with particular thanks to a west-sider's $500 gift. One student project continues: Poppy Butler's graphic design mentorship with Mark Doherty. Thank you for your support. Louis Druehl
